Miss Hostetter will enter a young ladies school at Los Angeles after which Mrs. Hostetter will join her husband.

A young man named Mayer, accompanied by his father, arrived in Las Cruces from Fort Smith, Ark., about ten days ago. He was in the last stages of consumption. The remains were taken home by the sorrowing father.

If the company organized to build electric car line from Las Cruces to El Paso, would make a start by building it as far as the Agricultural college this year it would look like business. The electric plant can furnish the power and the road will need but little grading, if any. The income for the first year would be nearly sufficient to pay for ties, rails and two cars, and would advance the stock of the company and give us all a ride to El Paso.

The building is undoubtedly one of the prettiest and most artistic structures in the southwest and stands as a monument to the piety and perseverance of the building committee and to the pastor the Rev. J. G. Harshaw who has been unremitting in his labors to push the structure to successful completion.

George Bell left this week for the Upper Gila Hot Springs, where he will spend a week in rest and recuperation. Mr. Bell's eye, which was injured last week visiting for which he took a trip to California where he took treatment of an eminent oculist, has not made the improvement expected of it, and Mr. Bell hopes, by placing himself in perfect physical condition, to thereby strengthen the injured eye and regain part of the sight.
